Citations and explanations (Rule 70.7)

None of the documents cited the Search Report discloses a process for making ganciclovir crystals free of alkaline residues; thus claims 1-4 are new as well as inventive.
Both trilayered packing material composed of polyester/polyethylene/propylene copolymer and ready-for-use formulations using said packing material (claims 5-9) are new as well as inventive.

Industrial applicability is given for claims 1-9.

VII. Certain defects in the international application

The following defects in the form or contents of the international application have been noted:

In a solution crystals are normally solved; thus a solution cannot contain crystals prepared according to a particular process. Consequently, the formulations "...crystals from active principle.." and "...prepared according to process of claim 1.." should be deleted in claim 5.
